The Full Title of the Article

The question reads:

Opening prose. There is no cover: page 1 is body text under a running head.

The question as posed, on a pale straw ground.

The answer, on a pale green ground.

How to read this document

- Dark red is for the āyāt of the Qur'ān and their meanings in English.
- Green is for the aḥādīth.
- Blue is for a saying of other than the Prophet ﷺ that has been quoted.
- (Grey round brackets) clarify the meaning of a word; [grey square brackets] are the editor's note.

❦

Ordinary prose continues. Footnotes are continuous through the document and links inside them are live.[1]

[1] Taken from this source.